Hydrogen Battery Tech Company Joins The Energy Innovation Lab

PGW and Temple University's Small Business Development Center (TU SBDC) selected Hydropore to join The Energy Innovation Lab.

The Lab is a small business incubator designed to empower energy entrepreneurs. Through the Lab, companies receive hands-on training, mentoring and real-time feedback from PGW energy industry experts.

Philadelphia-based Hydropore is developing hydrogen batteries that produce clean fuel for the next generation of trucks, buses, planes, trains, and ships. Hydropore was selected through a pitch competition evaluated by an expert panel of volunteer judges.

The Energy Innovation Lab is part of PGW's commitment to expand energy access and affordability, generate inclusive regional economic growth and lead Philadelphia's clean energy future.
